

“It is important that every student in our public school system be taught by the best, brightest and most well-prepared teachers. I commend the California Teacher Corps in their work to provide an additional pipeline for talented individuals to teach in California’s high-need schools. This represents a fantastic opportunity for skilled and committed individuals to effectively use their life experiences and apply them toward becoming effective partners in closing the achievement gap.”

Kaya Henderson, Chancellor
District of Columbia Public Schools